In the first three races at the fair grounds yesterday the favorites carried off the money handily. In the last three, however, the surprises took the money. These three more than made up for the heavy losses of the books on the first three races.

Surety was the first one to break the favorite-winning streak. In the third race Bonten opened the favorite and the wise money immediately went down on Martinmas. Professional race horse followers bet hundreds of dollars on Martinmas and he became a post-time favorite. Martinmas was ahead all the way and looked like an easy winner. Surety, however, showed a sudden flash of form and passed the favorite in the stretch, winning by two lengths and a half. Manders rode Surety as his first mount of the meeting, and it was an exceptionally good race.

Billy Meyer was the favorite in the fifth race, in view of his winning the first race of the day. He was outclassed, however, by both Valencia and Belle Brady, and finished third in the race. Peak rode one of the best rides of the meet on Valencia. Tim O'Toole acted like a circus horse at the post, and immediately after the start was made bolted and a general spill was narrowly averted.

One of the big surprises of the day was Tavora. She was heavily played at post time by the wise ones, and considerable money was placed on her at all of the pool rooms. The guess just suited her, and the wise ones knew it. Her friends made a big chip on her, and she was the favorite in the race, finished two lengths behind the winner. Aunt Kit was the favorite in the race, finished two lengths behind the winner. Aunt Kit was the favorite in the race, finished two lengths behind the winner.

Valencia followed pace first half, moved up on back stretch, assuming lead, held opponents safe thereafter. Belle Brady went well first half, driving fast final sixteenth. Myer showed speed four furlongs, but was out of luck. Toller showed speed five furlongs, others showed nothing.

Surety followed pace to stretch turn, where he overhauled Martinmas and out-finished him, coming away easily last sixteenth. Martinmas weakened only closing strides. Glaucus finished last. Toller went well first half. Others had no chance.
